The claims as amended are allowable over the prior art. Independent claims 57 and 81 of the claimed invention recite "first and second finger gripping surfaces mutually sized and laterally spaced apart a first distance for gripping simultaneously by an index finger and a little finger of a hand, the trocar handle including a recess between the first and second finger gripping surfaces . . . ". These claim limitations as recited overcome the prior art as the coplaner relationship between the individual finger gripping surfaces as defined are not present in the prior art.
